Favor Strike Action

Tie-Up Facing Two Shipyards

An overwhelming majority of shipyard workers in Victoria's two major shipyards voted for strike action in a Government-supervised strike vote yesterday.

The final count after 11 unions voted was 241 men in favor of a strike and 78 against.

Delegates from the unions met last night to consider the vote and what action would be taken. No decision was reached.

TO MEET SHORTLY

They said that a co-ordinating committee from Vancouver and Victoria would probably meet in a "day or so" to plan the next move.

No mention was made of closing down Victoria Machinery Depot or Yarrow's Limited on Monday.

The following is the manner in which the various unions voted at V.M.D.

Shipyard Riggers, Benchers and Helpers, Local 643, yes 6, no 0; Plumbers and Pipe Fitters, Local 254, yes 0, no 4; Moulders and Foundry Workers, Local 144, yes 18, no 12; Electrical Workers, Local 330, yes 2, no 4; Victoria Shipyard Workers (Boilermakers), Local 238, yes 46, no 3; Shipwrights, Joiners and Caulkers, Local 8, yes 5, no 20.

Unions at Yarrow's Ltd. voted as follows:

Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1588, yes 11, no 9; Shipyard Riggers, Benchers and Helpers, Local 643, yes 2, no 0; Plumbers and Pipe Fitters, Local 254, yes 36, no 4; Electrical Workers, Local 330, yes 13, no 11, and Victoria Shipyard Workers (Boilermakers), Local 238, yes 117, no 12.

Cool Here—Worse in Denver

A driving nine-inch snowfall made a mockery of Colorado's long Indian Summer with its record warm weather. It created one of the worst traffic jams in Denver history as it leech streets and drifted around stalled and parked automobiles. Accident reports during the Wednesday evening rush hour were so frequent that police didn't even look into a 28-car tangle because no one was injured.

Unemployment Less This Year

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP).—Seasonal unemployment has set in, but at a much slower rate than last year and a month later than usual, the Labor Department reported today.

Despite the end of harvesting in most sections of the country, jobs less registered for work with National Employment Service at October 19 were up only 3,500 from the year's low point of unemployment at September 26.

Registrations for jobs totaled 136,600 at October 19, the department said in a monthly survey of the employment situation. This was 30,000 below the figure at the corresponding date last year.

Last October, registrations increased by 13,700 over the September figures, compared with the 3,500 increase this Autumn. Last Autumn's increase was the prelude to rela-

Treasurer Vanishes But Dry Still Loses

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Nov. 9 (INS).—Blackford County, Ind., has re-elected missing county treasurer Lester Hiler.

Hiler was reported missing October 11 and later county commissioners said they had discovered a "substantial shortage" in his accounts.

Hiler was reported missing October 11 and later county commissioners said they had discovered a "substantial shortage" in his accounts.

In Tuesday's election, he received 2,460 votes. Hiler's only opponent, Luther Brandt, a prohibition ticket candidate, polled 1,251 votes.

Telephone Service Reduced

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP).—A country-wide strike of 33,000 telephone workers today slowed down long-distance service in the United States. Most local service was not affected.

Two off-duty policemen and pickets engaged in a minor clash in Pittsburgh. Telephone officials in San Francisco reported several wires cut there in what they described as an "apparent sabotage attempt."

The strike is being waged by the Communications Workers of America (C.I.O.) to enforce pay increase demands. About 16,000 of the 33,000 strikers are employed by the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and installing branch of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

They walked out at dawn after the union rejected a proposed increase of 10 to 11 cents an hour. The union announced it was demanding a "substantial boost."

Federal mediators met with the company and union during the day but finally suspended talks until tomorrow.

Strikers posted pickets around telephone exchanges from one coast to the other to induce almost 300,000 members of other branches of the C.W.A., including operators, not to work.

A company spokesman said, however, the average in 14 key cities across the country was "close to 85 per cent" of the normal operating level, through regular operators and replacements.

To Fight Canadians Says McManus

Reds Set for Underground War

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP).—T. G. McManus, former Communist, says a Communist organization stands ready "at an hour's notice" to fight an underground war in Canada against Canadians.

In an article, "The Reds Are Ready to Wage War Inside Canada," the one-time secretary of the Canadian Seamen's Union and former member of the Communist Central Committee for Canada says the Communists have already mobilized a carefully-trained organization of several thousand persons.

McManus, who broke with the party four months ago over its Korea policy, says that, in the event of war between Canada and Russia, the Communists will launch a two-pronged attack on production lines and within the armed forces, on the convictions and morale of Canadian servicemen.

CHOSEN AS LEADER

As a man who for 19 years "stood high in party councils," McManus says he was chosen to help lead the underground. Before he quit the party, he says, he was shown to an Ottawa River hideaway near Point

Chinese Pouring Troops Over Manchurian Border

Navy Makes Big Strike

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 10 (Friday) (AP).—A MacArthur briefing officer Thursday said large numbers of Chinese from Manchuria were pouring across the frontier into North Korea but patrols today still made no contact with the enemy.

An estimated 50,000 Chinese Communist troops had joined the 60,000 North Korean Reds still opposing the United Nations troops in the frigid, mountainous northern part of the Korean peninsula.

A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman has estimated that behind this striking force is an estimated 300,000 Chinese front-line troops along the frontier in Manchuria.

Navy planes in one of their biggest strikes of the war Thursday pounded Yalu River points. They struck at bridges across which troops and supplies were streaming from Communist Manchuria.

All day other Allied planes sought out enemy positions and bombed and strafed them. But the Chinese Reds are masters of concealment. Neither patrols nor planes found them in large number.

SIX PLANES SHOT DOWN

Reuters News Agency reported the Allied air force shot down or damaged six Communist planes over North Korea during the last 24 hours.

A B-29 Superfort shot down one Mig-15, late Russian-type jet fighter. A naval Panther jet shot down another. Both these engagements took place over the destroyed temporary capital of Sinju.

(Shooting Star jets downed two Yak 9 enemy planes west of Sinju in the Chongchon bridgehead and damaged two Mig-15's south of Sinju.)

Pickets reported a steady flow of traffic both ways between enemy bases in North Korea and the front lines.

The MacArthur spokesman said four Chinese groups—each equal to an American Army Corps—are in North Korea. Three groups face the United States Eighth Army on the northwestern front. The fourth opposes the 10th Corps in the northeast.

DIGGING IN

Air observers said the enemy appeared to be digging in around Chongju on the west coast about 20 miles from the main allied bridgehead on the Chongchon River. Air observers reported there were possibly three Chinese regiments confronting United States units north of Pakchon, northwestern focal point.

Otherwise the war appeared to be marking time while diplomats over the world pondered the delicate international situation. Red China has been asked to explain to the United Nations Security Council the presence of her troops in North Korea.

In Taipei, Formosa, Chinese Nationalist Intelligence officers Thursday placed the numbers of Chinese Red reserves in Manchuria at 150,000. These, they said, are Russian-equipped and are the elite of Gen. Lin Biao's fourth field army.

CALLED VOLUNTEERS

The presence of Chinese Red soldiers in North Korea now is conceded even by the Peiping Government—which called them "volunteers."

Map locates key points in yesterday's Korean situation as well as the present front (broken line) which is unusually quiet. Circled are the important Chongjin and Pujon reservoirs, the Sulho reservoir and its dam which provide power for both Korean and Manchurian industrial uses and the Yalu River cities of Antung in Manchuria and Sinuiju in Korea. The latter city was 90 per cent destroyed by Allied bombing Wednesday.

Western Allies Ask Security Council To Give Priority to Red China Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 9 (AP).—The United States, Britain and France tonight asked the Security Council to put the Chinese Communist crisis in North Korea ahead of all other business tomorrow and completed a resolution demanding that Red China withdraw its thousands of troops from Korea.

In asking for discussion of the Chinese Communist intervention in North Korea, the United States acted before a Communist Chinese delegation had an opportunity to arrive here. The council issued an invitation Wednesday.

Porter McKeever, spokesman for the United States delegation, said in a statement:

"Thus far, we have not been able to ascertain when the Chinese delegation is likely to arrive. As Ambassador Austin stated yesterday, the United States will have some direct and serious questions to put to them.

"However, the council must move ahead. It cannot allow Communist China, by timing their arrival at Lake Success to fit their own convenience and purpose, to impede the operation of the council. The clear duty of the council is to do everything it can as rapidly as it can to prevent the conflict in Korea from spreading."

The State Department said in Washington today it was directing American authorities in Prague to issue visas to a delegation of nine Communist Chinese representatives, believed en route here to take part in the council discussions of American aggression against Formosa.

Observers here speculated the Communist Chinese would instruct the same delegation to sit in on the charges against Red China also.

The United States, Britain, France and Ecuador were among the sponsors of the resolution to be put up in the Security Council. Its major points were said to be:

1. A demand for withdrawal of alien forces fighting beside the North Koreans, with no doubt left that the resolution refers to the Communist Chinese.

2. A call on all states to refrain from helping the North Koreans.

3. A request for the Korean committee to consider urgently all questions connected with the North Korean frontier.

Crops Snowed Under

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9 (CP).—Cold weather gripped the Prairies tonight. The weatherman saw only slightly increased temperatures for tomorrow.

Strong north winds were slackening and turning westerly to bring sunny skies and slightly higher temperatures to Saskatchewan. Above-zero temperatures were forecast for most regions.

Snow fell in abundance in North-western Ontario. The Lakehead reported a record November fall of 13 inches during a 24-hour period. Fort Frances had a 7½-inch snowfall that was continuing late tonight.

Heaviest snowfall in Manitoba was five inches at Rivers. Snow was blown by gusty winds reaching up to 40 miles an hour. About 4½ inches has fallen in the Yorkton district of Saskatchewan since Sunday.

COLDEST SPOT

Whitecourt, Alta., west of Edmonton, was the coldest spot on the Prairies with a low of 13 below. The coldest Saskatchewan districts were Delfee and Swift Current, both with 3 above. Gillam, in Northern Manitoba, had 8 below zero.

Manitoba's unharvested grain crop of 1,200,000 acres was caught by the winter weather. Most of the acreage is covered with snow and losses are expected to be heavy. North-Central Saskatchewan also was reported to have about 20 per cent of its wheat crop under snow.

Burns Fatal To Child Of Navy Man

Ronald Stroud, four-year-old son of a Canadian seaman now in Korean waters, died yesterday in the Naval Hospital at H.M.C.S. Naden as a result of burns suffered when his pyjamas caught fire.

Believed to have been playing with matches, the child was found about 9 a.m. by his mother and grandmother with his pyjamas nearly burned off.

They tore off the remainder of his blazing clothing and wrapped him in a blanket. The boy was then rushed to hospital in a naval ambulance from his home at 2422 Hamilton Street.

Death was reported approximately five hours later, at 3:30 p.m.

The boy's father, Chief Petty Officer Charles H. Stroud, now aboard H.M.C.S. Albatross, was being notified, a naval spokesman said.

A message had been sent to the ship, he stated.

Mission Head Says Canadian Men Will Like Schools When in Korea

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP).—Regardless of what they thought of schools at home, Canadian troops are going to like them in Korea, Brig. Frank Fleury said today.

The reason, reporters were told by the head of Canada's military mission in Tokyo, is that Korea is such a "grim, poverty-stricken" land the schools are among the few places where Western troops can be sheltered.

The advance party of 345 Canadians, for instance, now is living in two schools on an island in Pusan harbor.

"We couldn't take over the homes of the peasants," he said. "The troops couldn't stand them."

The schools were used after being thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

MORE TRAINING

At defence headquarters for talks about administrative and supply problems for the Canadians in Korea, Brig. Fleury also said:

"The first job of the Second Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry once it hits Korea will be to spend at least 'several weeks' completing company and battalion training. Once trained, its duties would depend on how the frontier situation stood.

2. The training base for the battalion can't be picked out until shortly before it arrives early in December because the current front situation would make an earlier choice unwise and possibly unsafe.

3. The Pats are so organized and equipped that it would be possible to fit them into higher British or American formations, either for training or for other duties.

4. Surprisingly, there have been no epidemics in Korea—and, so far, no leaves for the soldiers. Some leave centres might be established but Brig. Fleury thought soldiers on leave would probably head for Tokyo.

Korea was reminiscent of Italy in its peninsular formation, its stencils, its mountains and its threat of disease. But its mountains were probably even more rugged and the weather, in the north, could hit 30 below zero.

Klan Whips Ill Father, Bullies Sons

CONWAY, S.C., Nov. 9 (AP).—Tension grew in this town tonight after officers disclosed that the Ku Klux Klan had bull-whipped an ill father and forced his two sons to run a quarter of a mile in their underwear.

Rufus Lee, 52-year-old white farmer, was aroused from a sick bed early Tuesday by a dozen or so robed, masked men who had broken into his home.

"You drink too much," one of them told Lee. His two sons, Hinson, 18; and Coolidge, 23, objected.

Rufus was hustled into an automobile, taken to a wooded area, and beaten with a bullwhip. His sons were made to run about a quarter of a mile in their underwear, but they were not beaten.

At home, Coolidge's pregnant wife lay prostrated. Her three-year-old daughter had fainted from fright. She developed a highly nervous condition and was taken today to hospital.

Top Officials To Honor Dead

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP).—Governor General Alexander, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, chiefs of staff and Headquarters officials Saturday will participate in a Remembrance Day ceremony at the National War Memorial in Ottawa's Confederation Square.

Ten district bands and all local units of the three services will parade. The reserve force and cadets units also will take part, as well as veterans of the Great War and World War.

One sentry from each of the three armed services and a sentinel—a valued nursing sister—will be posted at the base of the National War Memorial while wreaths are being placed.

A wreath will be placed at the foot of the memorial by Mrs. John Beasley of Ottawa—mother of two sons killed in the R.C.A.F.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

The mailbox is full of good wishes, for which I thank all the wishers most warmly. But one thing has me worried. There's a serious shortage of abuse.

Won't someone drop an insult or two in the mail, care of this newspaper? Won't someone start an argument?

Must I thumb through a dozen newspapers in search of something to disagree with?

But the friendly letters are very welcome indeed.

Here's the kind of thing that brightens the humdrum life of a daily hack and gives courage on the grey days when there's nothing in the head but an ache. It's part of a letter from a Colville Road resident:

"My mother has been very ill for the past two weeks and after reading your column she seems to have suddenly regained her health—just laughed herself well. Instead of paying the doctor the usual fee, I would be very happy to send you some."

I'm afraid I can't set up as a mirth specialist, though. I'm strictly a general practitioner. I'm happy that some folk find this column a tonic. Some may consider it more of an emetic.

"Was interested to read... about the change coming over a house when it is vacant," says Mrs. R. Thomson, Mount Newton, Cross-road. "My mother, who passed away 13 months ago, loved her old two-story house in Esquimalt, where she lived for many years. I sold the house a few months ago to a young couple, and we pictured them settling in and modernizing it."

"A couple of weeks ago we drove past, and of course, all craned our necks to note any changes. Noticed a new Duroid roof, which looked somewhat like an elderly matron with a saucy hat on, but I remarked the fact that the old house looked sulky and resentful, they happened to see in the 'lastings canceled' that it had been sold again. No doubt it resents strangers poking and prodding, and turning up their noses at its shortcomings."

"Also note that you have never tried milking a cow. If you care to practise any time on our placid Jersey, name of Meg, you are welcome. We love to laugh at people trying to milk for the first time, and not getting any milk. We titter politely, and murmur, 'Of course, it's hard at first.'"

"Have assorted other livestock, two pigs named Goliath and Drusilla, hens rejoicing in such names as Ruby, Rita, Rosemary and one grey one with a white neck is 'Blanca'. Not to mention a cat named 'Bonnie', possessed of equally fierce hunting and maternal instincts, also a violent hatred of all dogs, and a yen for sleeping on beds."

Mrs. Neta Young, of 433 Superior Street, liked the recent piece about cats and moving day.

"We've moved so many times that I've written a story for my cat and called it, 'My Life With Those Humans.' I'm still adding moving days to it. . . . We too, lived by the sea, at beautiful Shoal Bay, and moved from there to Langford, but that's only one of the numerous changes for our precious feline, and each one seems more harassing, she thinks."

"Transportation doesn't improve either. Once she traveled by taxi, and was happy on the journey; another time in a bus, which was most confusing. Far too many people, she thought. The last time was in a crate with the furniture. Most degrading, she considered. How she rebelled."

"I really think next time I'll walk with her. She heartily disliked those noisy furniture movers."

"We lost her the first day here. She wandered into the garden next to ours and was frightened by the noise of house building. However, it was wonderful to see her sitting on the doorstep 24 hours later."

A recent column in favor of margarine brought several approving letters. Said Mrs. Ellen A. McQueen, 2321 Cook Street: "Farmers are a very necessary part of the community but they are only a small part of the population and have no right to dictate to the rest of us what grease we put on our bread."

"Those with the low-bracket incomes . . . would have to eat dry bread if it were not for margarine."

S. G. Newall, 2449 Cranmore Road, seconds the motion about margarine. He thinks that fish should be cheaper, too. "Why not permit the public to buy direct from the fish-boats?" he asks. "Or a fish market open twice a week. In St. John's . . . the citizens buy direct from the boats and the market."

More letters another day.

Canadian Jet Impresses French Defence Chiefs

MONTREAL, Nov. 9 (CP)—France's Defence Minister Jules Moch and Engineer General Salmon, head of French rearmament production, visited defence industries here today. They said they were "highly impressed" by what they saw. The Canadian-built F-86 jet fighter was put through its paces before the visitors.

Mr. Moch said in an interview later that France is producing the world's best weapons in some fields. He suggested that France might be prepared to supply Canada with new and superior types of artillery and tanks in exchange for the CP-100 if the jet fighter measures up to expectations.

France, he said, was already turning out:

SUPERIOR JEEP

1. A French jeep regarded by his experts as much superior to the original, and better than the most improved United States model which has not yet reached the full production stage.

2. A light tank which, while lighter in weight than anything comparable produced in any other country, carries a gun with a real punch and tough protective armor.

3. A 50-ton heavy tank unmatched anywhere and reported to carry a 120 mm. cannon in addition to other equally-impressive armament.

A gun which Mr. Moch described only as "the best in the world." Details are secret.

Texas Farmer Runs $6.89 Purchase Into Comfortable $63,000 Sale

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (INS)—The story of how a Texas farmer bought more than $1,000,000 worth of surplus parts from the government for $6.89 and then sold them back for $63,000 was told today by the Senate preparedness sub-committee.

The identity of the farmer, a former navy officer, was not disclosed by Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.), who called the transaction a "most astounding" example of short-sightedness on the part of the Federal surplus disposal agency.

Johnson said the incident occurred in 1946 when the farmer, who was purchasing some small items of surplus equipment for his own use, ran across an offering of "aircraft computers."

Thinking the devices might be useful as "cheap slide rules," he filed a bid of about five cents each.

He was soon notified that his bid had been accepted and he was told to pick up his purchase.

When the farmer told the government to ship the computers by parcel post, he was told that would be impossible since they took up about an acre of ground.

He rushed to the war surplus depot in San Antonio, Texas, and found that he had bought for his total bid of $6.89 about 170 unused aircraft parallax computers—intricate electric fire control instruments—of the latest design. Packing slips disclosed that the instruments were valued at $7,200 each—a total value of $1,224,000.

When the farmer said he didn't want the machines, the government agent told him he had to take them because he had signed a contract. So he had them hauled away to his home.

When the farmer notified the air force of his purchase, officers arrived quickly to inspect the machines. After some negotiations, the government bought the computers back for $63,000.

The purchaser estimated that in addition to the $6.89 price of the machines, the deal cost him $4,000 for crating, shipping and the like. He made this comment:

"The thing may be summed up by the saying that the disposal agency was delighted to unload what they thought was a heap of junk on an unsuspecting country boy."

Symphony, Choristers to Unite For Presentation of Messiah

The Victoria Symphony and the Victoria Choral Society will combine forces to present Handel's "Messiah" at the Royal Theatre December 17.

Tickets will go on sale at Fletcher's December 5 and will also be available from choral society members.

Arrangements were completed late Wednesday night by the board of directors of the symphony society to allow the orchestra to take part in the annual performance on a "partnership" basis with the choir.

The choral society will reciprocate next Spring by appearing with the symphony in a performance of the "Requiem" at the time of the Mozart birthday celebration.

In the past, only half of the symphony has appeared with the choir when the "Messiah" has been presented at the Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

Improved acoustics and greater stage space for the choir are among the advantages gained by using the Royal Theatre.

Conductor of the symphony is Hans Gruber.

Conductor of the Victoria Choral Society is Graham Steed. Until recently, the group was known as the Victoria Choral Union. It was founded about 18 years ago and was actually a union of many city choirs but the idea of union has gradually receded until the present name of society was introduced.

A committee of management has been formed for the choral society and includes as members Dr. Roger Manning, Dr. Harry Hickman, J. F. K. English, Cecil Annett and Dr. D. B. Roxburgh. More members will be added to the committee in the future.

Hearing Set On Rezoning For Theatre

A public hearing to decide whether a $150,000 four-screen drive-in theatre will be built in Saanich will be held at the Saanich Municipal Hall on Monday.

W. H. M. Haldane, counsel for R. M. Chechik of Vancouver, applied to Saanich Council recently for rezoning of 32 acres to allow operation of the theatre.

The theatre is expected to be built on property at the southwest corner of Tillicum and Southside Roads.

Council decided at a recent meeting to call for a public meeting on the matter.

Special Classes Work Well

Slower Children Escape Sense of Being Inferior

Special classes for mentally retarded children in Victoria schools are giving pupils a greater sense of accomplishment by scaling required work to their capabilities. Edna Lawrence told a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Optimist Club yesterday.

Miss Lawrence is in charge of the special classes for the Greater Victoria School Board. She told the club that special craft classes for mentally retarded children were set up six years ago. Of the 11,000 school children in Victoria today, 80 are enrolled in special classes.

RECEIVE PLEASURE

These children are given work they can do, she said, and they derive satisfaction from completing their work. In normal classes, mentally retarded children often develop a sense of inferiority because they are unable to complete assigned tasks.

Miss Lawrence said she found mentally retarded children were usually more sociable than their brighter schoolmates, and that they worked well together.

OPTIMIST WEEK

Next week will be Optimist Week, club president Ted Baker told the meeting. It will be observed by more than 800 clubs in Canada, the United States, Mexico, China and Puerto Rico.

Each day of the week will be treated as a separate event, Mr. Baker said. Sunday will be observed as a day of "Optimism and Spiritual Evaluation." Monday is community day, Tuesday education day, Wednesday better leadership day, Thursday family day and Friday recreation day. Saturday members will consider "Optimism as a philosophy of life."

IMPORTANCE GROWS

"The work of Optimist Clubs grows more important as we realize the need for keeping our spiritual house in order," Mr. Baker said. "Our boys of today will govern the world of tomorrow. Only by setting spiritual standards can the chaotic conditions that have plagued the last two generations be avoided in the years to come."

Optimists will hold a church parade Sunday to St. Saviour's Church.

Case Closed As Mickey Dons Muzzle

With luck, this will be the last you will hear of Mickey.

The eight-year-old brown and white terrier who nipped a Saanich meter reader and landed his owner in court on a charge of harboring a vicious dog, will wear a muzzle from now on.

And when he isn't muzzled, he'll be on a leash.

An undertaking to the effect that the dog would be allowed out only on a leash, or muzzled when unmuzzled, was given in Saanich police court yesterday by his owner, Cecil Duke, 870 Brett Street. A previous sentence calling for destruction of the dog or "banishment" was then suspended by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

NO LICENCE

Alan Ploss, Saanich youth who pleaded guilty to a charge of owning a dog without a licence, was ordered to pay a fine of $2.50.

Fines of $35 were imposed on Peter Lunn, 67 San Jose Boulevard, and Robert J. Clements, both of whom pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving.

Murray MacArthur, who also pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving arising out of a collision November 4 on East Saanich Road, was fined $40 and had his driver's licence suspended.

Through the kindness of the Rev. W. Allan, of the Fairfield United Church, Moss and Fairfield Roads, a memorial service for the War Amputations of Canada, Victoria Branch, will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 12th. It is requested that all members and families possible, will please attend this service, commencing at 10:45 a.m.

Hawkins, circulation manager, to Mr. Glancy. Others present were E. Sidaway, promotion manager, and T. C. Hamilton, city circulation manager. ## Mayor Fears Spiral

Curbs on Inflation Urged As Workers Seek Raise

In view of reports this week that two groups of civic employees were asking for wage increases, Mayor Percy George yesterday expressed an opinion that senior Governments should try to find ways to halt the spiral of inflation.

"From reports I have heard, increases if granted in full could cost the city in the neighborhood of $170,000," stated Mayor George, adding however, that his estimate was "a rough guess." City police have asked officially for across-the-board pay increases of $30 a month. On December 1, the city's "inside staff" will formally apply for the same increase. Members of the "outside staff," firemen and Greater Victoria teachers, are said to be planning wage demands. "With the rising cost of living there is enough to warrant employees asking for something," observed the mayor. "I can't see justification of $30 a month. That is only adding fuel to the inflation fire."

Many Apply To Join Club

More than 125 elderly persons have joined the 60-Up Club, Mrs. Blair Reid reported at the monthly meeting of the Recreation Council of Greater Victoria.

Mrs. Reid stated that there was a waiting list for membership in the club. She also announced that the club has already started its Winter activities. During the meeting J. Halstead gave details of an interview with the Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, Tokio, who visited Victoria recently. Mr. Halstead stated that the

During the time he has lived in Saanich, he has taken a keen interest in affairs of the municipality, and about a year ago headed a group organizing a petition in the area then known as Ward Two for street lighting improvements. That effort met with considerable success.

Mr. Smith is associated with a number of veterans' organizations, is a member of the K. of P., and is a former vice-president of the Alberta Association, Victoria branch. He regards drainage and improvement of the municipality's secondary roads as being among the larger problems to be faced by the Saanich Council.

Remove the Water Main From the Bridge

VICTORIA will be attending to first things first when it takes definite steps to replace the existing and condemned Point Ellice Bridge. Right from the start arrangements should be made to eliminate the superimposed water main, which never should have been placed there in the first place. As matters stand the City faces not only the daily hazard of the weakened structure, but the assurance that if it should go out not only a traffic artery but also a substantial part of our water supply would be cut at the same time. That arrangement has nothing to commend it from a defence standpoint or from any other.

The City has on record voluminous evidence by the late Frank M. Preston, former City Engineer, and others as to the disastrous effect of placing the water main on the bridge in the first place. The structure was not designed for that. Mr. Preston believed that the superimposed weight on one side of the bridge would throw the structure off balance eventually, and he campaigned for years to get something done about it. It was Mr. Preston who began systematic reports on the actual misalignment that did take place, and who tried by every means in his power to prevent the very condition that has come about—a public bridge which has to be limited in use by reason of its weakened condition.

Whatever is done about replacing the bridge—and it cannot be done too soon to please those who remember the disaster of 1896—the City should not repeat the mistake over the water main. Its place is not on the bridge, unless the new structure is specially designed to carry it; and even then the combination could never be a fortunate one. So Point Ellice Bridge is a waterworks problem as well.

Canada Still Awaits an Immigration Policy

MR. George Drew's vision of Canada with a population of 100,000,000 is likely to be a long time coming to fulfillment. At the present annual rate of increase it would take about 250 years. Perhaps that is what Mr. Drew was getting at, since his party has always been critical—and with cause—of the inadequate, ineffectual immigration policy of the Liberals.

The Dominion Government came in for commendation from all sides when it appointed a full-time Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. The country began to look hopefully for a real program of immigration. It has not come, and there is no reason yet to regard the appointment as other than a gesture of appeasement to the many influential, non-political organizations (the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is one) which have been pressing the Government to do something about developing the country's vast untouched resources by means of selective immigration.

The Government's astigmatic view of the needs of the Dominion in population can be judged from the present state of the farm labor market. In some parts of the country, notably Ontario, farmers have been so hard pressed by shortage of workers that they have been unable to gather their crops, and rather than let the harvest go to rot they have invited the public to help themselves. Yet only last June this extraordinary statement was issued from Ottawa: "The supply of farm workers is now about equal to the demand. As a result immigration of displaced persons will be on a reduced scale this year."

A nation which could support 100,000,000 people, and has a mere 14,000,000, has a grave responsibility in a world bulged and twisted out of shape by the pressure of unequal population. There are millions of people, with backgrounds comparable to those of the founders of Canada, who ask only the opportunity to come here and assist in opening up its vast undeveloped areas. If from no more worthy motives than those of self-interest, the Dominion should encourage and help them to do so.

Thunderbird Squadron Has Done Well

IT seems typical of the public relations of the Defence Department at Ottawa that the effort to suppress news of desertions and unscheduled absences from the Special Force training for service abroad has heightened a minor incident into an unedifying and unwelcome mystery, while something that is entirely creditable and very much worth talking about has hardly been heard of by the public—the magnificent work of the Thunderbird Squadron of the R.C.A.F. in the Tokyo airlift.

For weeks now planes of the squadron have been operating on almost continuous hops over the Pacific and return. They have flown tens of thousands of miles without hitch, and with a regularity of performance that speaks volumes for the aircrews and ground crews that have made that fine performance possible. This is one story that should be given to the nation. It is the record of good work done with a willingness and efficiency that has brought much honor to this country, besides upholding the best traditions of the R.C.A.F.

Since Canada as a nation had no part in flying the Pacific before, it is all the more wonder that this splendid record has been kept under cover, as it were. A few newspapers, this one included, made a special effort to follow the service from its inception. That was made difficult, if not impossible, by reason of the Defence Department's own actions. As matters stand, we seem to be "hushing" in the wrong places and without any well-defined reason at all. The R.C.A.F. has contributed a Pacific record in its own right. Why shouldn't the nation learn of that?

PRICE OF MILK

Sir,—Thank you for the thoughtful editorial in your paper, November 3, on the suggested increase in price of milk. The Federal Government has priced butter right out of the average home.

Increased prices in milk could do the same thing. Perhaps the Milk Board (provincial) will consider this fact.

A. M. HOLT.

R.R. 1, Sidney, B.C.

MULTIPLE POLLING STATIONS

Sir,—I see the Victoria aldermen have voted to have multiple polling stations for the city, the main reason being the lack of sufficient parking space at city market.

Why could not the near parking meters be covered on polling day for use of voters only; and also, why could not the big city lot back of the market be used for voters exclusively on that day?

It may end up in Victoria City having 30 or more polling stations with all the attendant expense involved.

Victoria, I understand, has done as well or better than most cities in the past in getting out to vote.

This is a matter I think the new city manager should have a say in, in view of increased expenses involved.

Frank Hunter and his assistants have done a good job in the past at the single poll, no serious delays, etc.

Victoria's unusual geographical setting with its coastline simplifies a central voting place. A grave error is being made.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE

"VANCOUVER" ISLAND

Sir,—May I say I quite agree with the opinion advanced by your interesting columnist, Mr. O. E. Mortimer, that Vancouver Island should be given another name. I know many in Eastern Canada, and especially in the United Kingdom, are puzzled that Vancouver should be on the Mainland, and Victoria—the capital—on Vancouver Island.

So I would suggest a change to a name beginning with the letter "V," then "V.I." would still remain as the address. Here are some possible names, taken from the Latin—Vicius, Veritas or Vesper Island. Bellerive would describe this lovely island, but I feel a word beginning with the letter "V" would be preferable.

GERTRUDE PRINGLE

OVER-FORTY PROBLEM

Sir,—In North America we wonder about the class distinctions in India and, I suppose, in India they wonder about the age distinctions in employment in North America. We all know that both should be abolished and we all know the answer, at least to our problem, but no one will speak up.

The answer is for the Government to take over all existing pension schemes and put everyone on a unified pension at 60 or 65. Why shouldn't they? We are all paying into these pensions now every time we make a purchase.

In cutting out the individual pension scheme you are not only giving all a new feeling of security through life, but you are opening up avenues of employment for men over 40.

I am an accountant and could not get work here for six months then I got janitor work. The U.I.C. told me that all demands for accountants were for men under 30. At present I am unemployed.

H. R. McCONNELL

The Waiting

I wait and watch: before my eyes
Methinks the night grows thin and gray;
I wait and watch the eastern skies,
To see the golden spears arise
Beneath the oriflamme of day!...

I will not dream in vain despair
The steps of progress wait for me;
The puny leverage of a hair
The planet's impulse will may spare
A drop of dew the tides sea.

The low, if loss there be, is mine,
And yet not mine if understood;
For one shall grasp and one resign,
One drink life's rue, and one its wine,
And God shall make the balance good...
—JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT was when I saw a policeman, a postman and a fireman talking animatedly on a street corner that I began to reflect on this business of wearing a uniform. Half the population, it seems, is so panoplied.

Whether this is due to a custom that's older than our history books, or whether it stems from the growth of regimentation in human affairs is a matter of opinion.

There's the vanity angle, too, I suppose. A uniform makes a difference. It causes the public eye to be thrown in your direction, even if you are only as a pea in the pod when there are half-a-dozen and more of you. How else explain the outlandish rigs adopted by some groups.

That's not the whole story, of course. It could be argued that a uniform is an aspiration as well as a convenience. Somebody once said that if you put an Irishman in a green jersey he becomes a man inspired. True enough, as witness so conglomerate a group as a young hockey player wearing a Maple Leaf sweater for the first time, a storm trooper in a brown shirt, and a Highlander in his kilt.

And, as some ladies no doubt could testify, some of the glamour is lost also when the uniform is taken off. Many a wartime household received a shock when its founder was viewed in civvies for the first time.

It's surprising, though, the number of occupations that call for a prescribed form of dress, and it's growing all the time. Ready to mind come busmen, railway conductors, doormen, commissioners, bellboys, elevator operators, taxi-drivers, butlers, theatre ushers, seamen, clerghymen, customs officials—and a host of others. Large sections of industry would be helpless without brass buttons and braided trousers.

Professional athletes are uniformed, and they would look queer indeed if they were not. I feel sure Toronto fans wouldn't have appreciated Syl Apps if he had stepped on the ice in the suit he wears at his office. It's preferable that a soccer player should look like a soccer player, and so on.

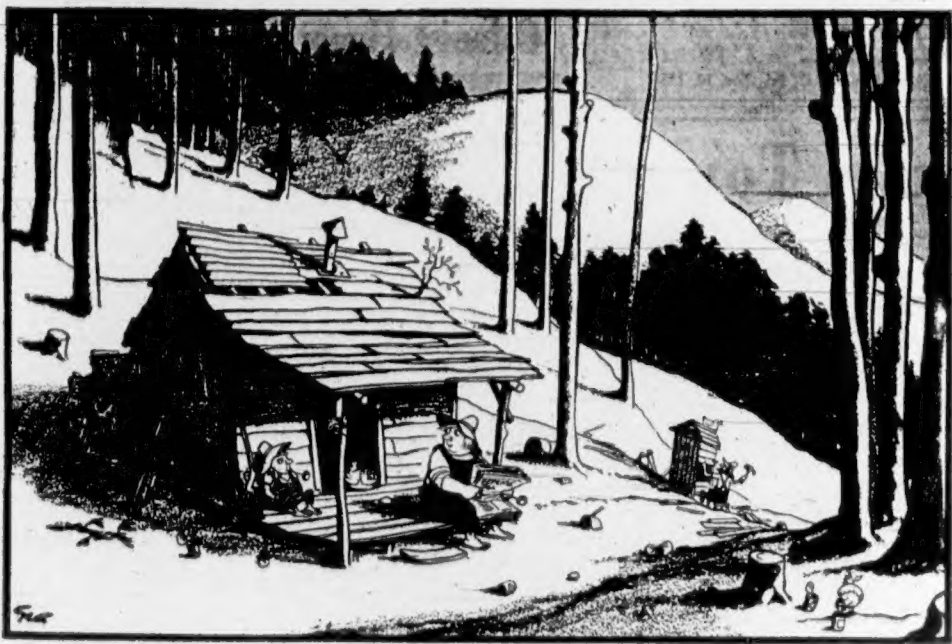

Even tradesmen, by tradition as much as by necessity, bear a uniformed look when on the job. As examples, we have the carpenter's apron, the laborer's dungarees, and the painter's overalls. You might stretch a point if necessary and say that clerks in a large office look mighty alike. They don't wear a uniform exactly, but they're circumscribed enough to make it almost appear as though they did.

A woman might go farther and say that all men wear a uniform, the drab, conventional coat, vest and trousers that has them in a strait-jacket from which they evince no apparent desire to escape. That is, except in Victoria, although the prevalence here of sports coats and flannel bags is merely a substitute without material difference.

If this be a token of male aversion to being conspicuous, it is not so contradictory from the vanity angle as it might seem. Most men are in a constant fight with themselves, one part seeking public attention and the other part shrinking like the proverbial violet.

Putting on a special uniform, however, brings them into another category altogether. That's when the ego gets a legitimate chance to express itself—and how it does it sometimes!

Writing on this topic in The Sunday Chronicle, Robert Lynd puts forward the suggestion that everybody should wear the uniform of his calling—not only clergymen and barristers, but butchers, bakers, candlestick makers, artists, jockeys, profiteers, income tax wranglers, commissionaires and peers. There's an idea for you!

Civil Defence of Victoria

(Continued in a series of articles by a student of nuclear medicine and former medical officer in the British civil defence force.)

By DR. A. F. MCGILL

BRITAIN is the acknowledged leader in civil defence planning. It might be helpful, by way of example, to describe plans for Birmingham.

There the target area is likened to a doughnut, the target area being the hole in the centre. The outside or peripheral area is a zone of defence, from which forces are assembled and from which they can be dispatched to strike the area.

The target area is divided into wedge-shaped segments, these into sections and subsections and finally into air raid warden districts of 200 or 300 acres each, staffed by 60 to 100 wardens who keep detailed records.

Outside target area, in the doughnut itself, are billeted mobile columns of 300 men for each 100,000 of population. These are rescue, engineering and ambulance workers, to be thrown in where workers in the target zone are overwhelmed.

This is the basic plan and is similar to those used in other parts of Britain and in the United States. It sets a pattern for Greater Victoria, whose population, of course, is much smaller.

Now let us look at some of the principles which should guide civil defence planning.

The major problem in bombing, (whether it be atomic or high explosive mixed with incendiary) is fire. Trained auxiliary fire fighters are vital. They must be trained in all fire fighting devices, in rescue and first aid. Decentralization of equipment is essential, with at least 50 per cent always held in the peripheral area. Fire fighting devices must be able to traverse rubble and so it is essential that bulldozers and similar equipment be made available to the fire fighters.

In a saturation raid hydrants may be broken off. Ideally, they should be placed beneath street level or surrounded with heavy concrete boxes. The fire force must have maps for cutting off gas, electricity and water at strategic points. Ground hose is required for connecting damaged with usable sections of the water system. Portable pumps must be available for maintaining pressure and especially for pumping directly from the ocean in the event of major damage to the water supply.

The relationships and the co-ordination required between fire fighters and police and wardens must be clearly outlined and understood. In dealing with the fire problem, a vital point must be realized—that in the first instance fire must be fought by the householder alone or with the aid of neighbors. With proper effort 90 per cent of such fires can be put out without the aid of fire forces, and the efforts of individuals can prevent small scattered fires from growing into a conflagration.

The individual home owner must realize, also, that fire fighting forces may be completely overwhelmed and the saving of his own home may rest largely on his own knowledge and effort.

Fire is a combination of fuel, oxygen and heat. Exclude one of these elements and fire stops. The principal use of water is in cooling. Sand is applied to restrict the oxygen supply.

Here are some of the things the householder can do to reduce the risk of damage to his home:

1. Clean out combustible material, particularly in the attic and basement. Avoid accumulation of such materials or store them in an outbuilding. Have a ladder permitting access to the roof. If possible use fire retarding materials; for example, sodium silicate on roof timbers; curtains and similar fabrics can also be treated with fire retardants. Closing of windows and doors prevents the spread of fire.

Some fire fighting devices are simple and essential. Firstly, buckets, used for no other purpose, together with plentiful supplies of stored water. Secondly, a pump—many of the stirrup pumps used for garden spraying are adequate. Thirdly, a bucket of sand or earth and long-handled shovel for extinguishing incendiaries. Lastly, the householder must know where to shut off electricity, water and gas.

Here are some of the fire fighting hints used by the British:

1. Break a panel near the lock if it is necessary to force a door.
2. Turn off gas at the main on entering. This will prevent an explosion.
3. Leave electricity "on," but if it is already "off," find out the reason before putting it on again.
4. Start at the top and work downwards when searching a house.
5. Exclude oxygen by keeping doors and windows closed when possible.
6. Crawl, don't walk, when in thick smoke.
7. Keep near walls, where floor and stairs are strongest.
8. Attack fires at closest possible range.
9. Attack the heart of a fire.
10. Attack oil fires with sand, earth or foam.
11. Before leaving be sure that all fires are out.
12. When leaving, turn off electricity at main.

Miracles Can Happen

(From The Brockville Recorder and Times)

THE age of the miracle, contrary to general belief, is not passed. Believe it or not, the National Revenue Department will perform two miracles, and they can be called no less.

Miracle one: The staff of the department, between 11,000 and 12,000 employees, will be reduced to 7,500, freeing such persons for more positively productive work, and cutting the cost of the department's maintenance, a boon to the taxpayer.

Miracle two: The department has announced that for the first time in its history it is almost up-to-date in tax collections and that by March 31, 1951, all arrears of taxes and uncompleted cases will have been wound up. We'll believe absolutely anything now.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The usage on this continent whereby a superfluous adverb is tacked to the verb, as in "cheek up," "start in," and "try out," worries a British purist. One of those problems to be faced up to, as we say.

Life Magazine's critic of half-educated teachers is perhaps unaware that by letting the progressive school folk take over the class a teacher can learn by listening.

A doctor had a call from a man whose small son had swallowed a fountain pen. "All right," replied the doctor, "I'll come as soon as I can. What are you doing about it in the meantime?" "Oh," said the father, "I'm using a pencil."

Senator Soaper's variation of the Brannan Plan, jotted down on an old envelope, calls for declaring potatoes legal tender and wiping out the national debt.

Austerity without pain: "A shortage of steel for barrels of the type used in going over Niagara Falls is reported."

"I am gratified by this evidence that I am human," said the political forecaster whose long-winded streak had snapped.

Hubby sneaked home at 3 a.m. His angry wife met him at the door. "So home is the best place after all!" she snorted.

"I don't know about that," her male replied, "but it's the only place open."

13. Remember that phosphorus will re-ignite when dry.
14. Keep all fire fighting appliances in order.
15. Keep ample supplies of water: You cannot have too much.

DONT—

1. Go alone into a smoke-filled building, except to save life.
2. Enter a burning building or room, except to save life, without fire fighting appliances.
3. Play water on electric wiring.

GENERAL

1. When in smoke, and looking for a window from which to escape, remember that fire may be reflected from a mirror, making it resemble a window.
2. Make a note of the position of the nearest: (a) Fire station. (b) Emergency water supplies, e.g., ponds, rivers, etc.

(Remember a building will deal with the job of pulling, fire and rescue appliances in a civil defence plan.)

Observation Car

By G.S.

A GROUP of United States visitors strolling along the promenade deck of Ss. Princess Patricia on the way from Victoria to Vancouver noticed several smartly attired naval cadets from Royal Roads leaning over a rail for a last look at the Outer Harbor. "I wonder what outfit those boys belong to? They wear rather unusual uniforms," one of the tourists commented. "Maybe they are the Canadian soldiers we read about who are going to Korea," another mused. "Perhaps they are Marines from an English battleship. I think there is one anchored somewhere near Victoria," a third observed. "They look like air force boys in their Sunday uniforms, but they do not seem to wear any wings," a fourth said. "Canadian uniforms sure are different from ours. Perhaps they belong to the sea scouts and have to make this trip for training. They ought to be helping the captain, or down in the engine room," the first tourist chuckled. "My curiosity has gotten me down. I will go and ask them what they are," the third speaker suggested. He strolled over to the lads and asked: "Say, do you fellows belong to the boy scouts?" The boys' blushes matched the red trimmings on their uniforms. . . . From The Washington Post: "A message from President Truman called for elimination of arbitrary age limits on retirement and the determination of methods for making use of the experience, knowledge and obvious productivity of those aged in a technical sense only. What the President said reflects the findings of medical science and insurance company actuaries of a steadily increasing and healthy average life span." . . . Thackeray wrote: "They say that every one of us believes in his heart, or would like to have others believe, that he is something which he is not."

Lull Increases Hopes Of Averting Big War

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. News Analyst

The lull in the North Korean fighting has spurred American hopes that the United Nations policy of freeing the country of Communist rule, making it a sort of a pilot plan for democracy in Asia, can be carried out without a general war.

Army people at the scene as well as diplomats at home are beginning to think that Communist China is manoeuvring more for political than military position. This feeling is encouraged by the Peiping claim that its forces already in North Korea are volunteers.

At any rate, the cautious American attitude in the United Nations, in agreeing to continue with the Chinese—and in refraining from branding them as aggressors, is based on several reasons.

One is that Russia would probably like nothing better than to see the United States and her allies tied up for five or 10 years in a war with China, that great sand-pile which has absorbed the thrusts of so many enemies.

The other is that China's intentions are not yet known; that if there is a chance to avoid a big war, it should be given every opportunity before the risk of carrying the war across the border is taken. That, not appeasement, is why action has not been taken against Chinese bases north of Korea.

This does not mean that the United States or the United Nations is retreating from the major intention of freeing Korea from the aggressors. It is a continuation of the secondary policy, in effect since the first days of the war, of accomplishing this purpose without causing a general conflict.

SEEM TO BE FISHING

Peiping seems to be fishing for something. It may be the Yalu power plants, regarding which the United States has agreed to an international settlement. The units of this great hydroelectric project lie in both China and Korea. It may be for assurances that the United Nations forces will not cross the border. It may be for a buffer area in North Korea.

The buffer idea has been considered from the standpoint of whether the United States and the United Nations could afford to modify their Korean program to that extent. A decision on it will not be made until careful consideration of the views of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the other allies.

Such a buffer strip would have

Oddities

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP). Capt. Wellington B. Stephens, at 102, has lost two friends who stood by him most of his life.

The friends are two teeth, extracted by a dentist this week. "I've had plenty of painful experiences in my days," boasted the captain, a one-time deep-sea diver and Great Lakes salvage expert, "but nothing to equal these blasted teeth."

Only six teeth are left, and these will go in the near future when the decks are cleared for some artificial dentures.

SEATTLE, Nov. 9 (AP).—The big signboard at Jim Brady's service station realistically shows a nation of outdoor living in wet weather. To add to the realism, Brady added some decoys.

At dusk yesterday a Mallard duck sailed in, spotted what appeared to be a pond where some of his feathered friends were swimming, and tried a high-speed landing.

Brady got a duck dinner.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 9 (AP).—Word spread quickly today that a 600-pound copper mine had been found on a nearby hill. Two newspapers printed the story in special editions.

Hundreds of people swarmed to the hill. A police guard prevented them from reaching the mine.

The copper lacer was three feet high. It had been planted by students as a practical joke to highlight their annual festival.

Court Rejects Appeal Bids By Holdup Men

VANCOUVER, Nov. 9 (CP).—Appeals of Stewart Robertson, 24, and Wilford Hutchinson, 26, convicted of a $1,500 hotel robbery near Victoria, were dismissed today by the Court of Appeals here.

The men appealed against conviction and sentences of six and seven years for the June 24 holdup of the Goldstream Hotel beer parlor, outside Victoria.

The court was told that Robertson was a captain in the South African Commandos during the war, and at the time of his discharge held the rank of acting major.

Hutchinson is also serving a concurrent four-year term for theft.

Both men conducted their own appeals. R. A. Wootton appeared for the Crown.

Delays Ruling In Appeal Case

VANCOUVER, Nov. 9 (CP).—The British Columbia Appeal Court reserved judgment today on the appeal of Wesley Alexander Brethour, a Victoria lawyer, from disbarment by the benchers of the B.C. Law Society.

The disbarment resulted from complaints by Mrs. Anna Macheur of Port Alberni in connection with conduct by Brethour of an appeal by the woman's husband from a sentence of 18 months for forgery.

Mrs. Macheur alleged that the lawyer claimed he was a personal friend of Chief Justice Gordon Sloan and could have the sentence reduced to six months. Brethour denied the charge.

His counsel, J. W. Byers, told the court Brethour would not have to answer other charges by Mrs. Macheur that he did not conduct the appeal properly, and that he snatched the case from another lawyer for $100, instead of $200 sought by another lawyer for conducting the appeal.

Canada Alters Plan To Reduce Airlift

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP).—Canada's military airlift across the Pacific was ordered cut back recently but the order was subsequently canceled with the onset of stiffening Communist resistance in the Korean war.

This was learned tonight amid indications from various sources that with the entry of the Chinese Communists into the Korea battle, the aerial supply line will be maintained at full strength for some time.

Canada has had a dozen big North Star transports of the R.C.A.F. Thunderbird Squadron on the Tacoma-to-Tokyo supply run carrying men and materials since last July. Release of the planes depends on developments in Korea but the expectation is that none will be sent home before early next year.

NOTHING HEARD
A Defence Department spokesman said nothing had been heard here of a report by Dave McIntosh, Canadian Press correspondent in Tokyo, that Canada's part in the airlift might soon end.

Neither had he heard of speculation in Tokyo, also reported by McIntosh, that the whole of Canada's 11,000-man special brigade would go to Korea.

Under present plans the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry with supporting troops—about 1,000 men—will go to Korea late this month. A 345-man advance party is already there making a camp ready.

The remainder of the special brigade is to move to Fort Lewis, Wash., for training and to await a call to service anywhere Canada may have to meet United Nations or Atlantic Pact commitments.

In Toronto today, External Affairs Minister Pearson was quoted as saying that no troops other than the Pals would be sent to Korea immediately. Commenting on the Korean fighting, Mr. Pearson said:

Manitoba's Legislature Backs Up Flood Record

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9 (CP)—Manitoba's Legislature tonight voted 35-16 to defeat a C.C.F. non-confidence motion and uphold the flood record of Premier Douglas L. Campbell's administration.

The C.C.F. resolution, supported by Progressive Conservatives and a sprinkling of Independents, claimed the Government had "failed miserably to give leadership" during the 1950 Red River Valley flood crisis.

Harry Shewman (C-Ind., Morris), mayor of flood-hit Morris, rapped the Provincial Agriculture Department for lags in evacuating livestock from the valley. He estimated 90 per cent of the best livestock could have been saved if the Government had acted quickly.

WANT ASSURANCE

Mr. Shewman also criticized the Crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for refusing loans to persons wanting to build homes in his town. He read a letter from the corporation saying loans would not be granted "until we know definitely what protection your community is going to be given by the proposed dike agreements."

Dorothy Swales (C.C.F., Winnipeg Centre), accused Progressive Conservative Leader Erick—P. Willis, who was public works minister in the Campbell Government until his resignation in August, of being "more responsible than anyone else for the Government's failure during the flood."

R. P. Wightman (L.P., Assiniboia), urged the Government to make dike arrangements for suburban St. James on the Assiniboine River.

Lloyd Stinson (C.C.F., Winnipeg South), demanded Government compensation for persons whose homes were damaged by the flood but were not in the inundated area. Present Government assistance is given only to homes where river water touched the outside walls.

On April 28, the Red River had reached its highest level in 124 years at Emerson, 68 miles south of Winnipeg, Mr. Stinson said. The Government had not acted until May 6, and "even then only because it was forced into action by public opinion."

Union Case Judgment Reserved

VANCOUVER, Nov. 9 (CP)—Judgment was reserved in Supreme Court today on application for an injunction that would stop Trades and Labor Congress re-organizing Vancouver Civil Employees' Union.

"Mr. Justice Wood's decision will probably be known within a few days."

Wilfred J. Wallace, making application for Local 28, Civil Employees' Union, said "Congress is violating its own constitution" by organizing "the dual union."

The injunction bid came as the T.L.C. sought to rid Vancouver Civil Employees' Union of alleged pro-Communist leadership through formation of an anti-Communist local.

Victor L. Dryer, appearing for the T.L.C., based his objection to the application on two points: That "nothing in the constitution prohibits forming this union" and that "the applicants themselves have broken the spirit and letter of the constitution and therefore have no right to seek an injunction."

The application for the injunction was against T.L.C. vice-president Carl Berg and T.L.C. organizer Tom Gooderham.

Limited Allied Merger Hoped for by Churchill

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (CP)—Winston Churchill wanted to see at least a limited merger between the United States and the British Commonwealth after the World War.

In the latest installment of his war memoirs, which are being published in Canada and the United States, the British leader tells the story of a Washington luncheon talk that laid early foundations for the United Nations and postwar Anglo-American co-operation.

"I said I could see small hope for the world unless the United States and the British Commonwealth worked together in fraternal association," Mr. Churchill writes.

"I should like the citizens of each, without losing their present nationality, to be able to come and settle and trade with freedom and equal rights in the territories of the other."

"There might even be some common form of citizenship."

NOW POLICIES

The idea was not carried much further in that direction, but two other Churchill plans now are regular British-American policies.

One was the combined military staff conversations, which still continue under a different name. The other was constant contact with the hope of keeping both nations' foreign policies close together.

The luncheon was held at the British Embassy in the Spring of 1942 while Mr. Churchill paid his fifth visit to President Roosevelt—just as the Allies won their final triumph in North Africa.

The President did not attend, but the Americans present were Vice Secretary Henry Stimson, Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, Senator Tom Connally, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and State Undersecretary Sumner Welles.

ASSOCIATION

"I said that the first preoccupation must be to prevent further aggression in the future by Germany and Japan," Churchill writes.

"To this end I contemplated an association of the United States, Great Britain and Russia. If the United States wished to include China in an association with the other three, I was perfectly willing that this should be done."

"On these powers would rest the real responsibility for peace. They, together with certain other powers, should form a supreme world council."

On his flight home, Mr. Churchill stopped at Gibraltar, and the Germans found out about it.

"This led to a tragedy which much distressed me," he relates. "The regular commercial aircraft was about to start from the Lisbon airfield when a thick mist, smoking a cigar, walked up and was thought to be a passenger on it. The German agent therefore signalled I was on board."

"A German warplane was instantly ordered out and the defenceless aircraft was ruthlessly shot down. Thirteen civilian passengers perished, and among them the well-known British film actor Leslie Howard."

"The brutality of the Germans was only matched by the stupidity of their agents. It is difficult to understand how anyone could have imagined that I should have booked passage in a neutral plane from Lisbon and flown home in broad daylight."

Trip to Japan Out for M.P.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP)—George Murray, Liberal Member of Parliament for Carleton Place, has been advised that a projected visit to Japan and nearby countries is not on the books because of the Korean situation.

Mr. Murray, who with other members of Parliament had planned a trip to the Far East to explore trade possibilities, falls into the class of "unnecessary" visitors.

It is understood here that the External Affairs Department has relayed the word to Mr. Murray that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters are not entertaining any foreign visas except official ones. This word goes for United States Congressmen as well as Canadian Parliamentarians.

External Affairs sources said Mr. Murray's trip was not a visit associated with the Canadian Government, and was in no way official.

Canadian Ships Leave Korea For Hongkong

TOKIO, Nov. 9 (CP)—The three Canadian destroyers that have been operating with United Nations forces in Korean waters were on their way to Hongkong today for a brief spell of anti-submarine training.

They will work with a British submarine off the big naval base. The Athabaskan and the Cayuga are due to reach Hongkong Friday. The Sioux, escorting a British carrier, is scheduled to arrive there Saturday.

WILL RETURN

United Nations naval commanders here said all three will return to Japan in about a week to resume "routine patrol" off Korea.

The Tribal class destroyers, which sailed from Esquimaux, July 5, have taken part in landing and bombardment operations off Korea, as well as performing patrol duties and screening larger United Nations fleet units.

In all the actions, including the Inchon landings on the west coast of Korea, September 15 that led to the liberation of the South Korean capital of Seoul, there have been no Canadian casualties.

Each destroyer carries a complement of about 250 sailors, mostly young men who have joined the navy since the end of the World War.

The destroyers, in the war zone since July 31, represent only part of Canada's contribution to the United Nations fight against Communism in Korea. Twelve R.C.A.F. North Star planes are operating on the Trans-Pacific airlift between McChord Field, Wash., and Tokyo. An advance party of the Canadian army's 11,000-man Special Service Force has reached Korea and the Second Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is due to sail for Korea late this month.

New Swiss Discovery F "99"

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

EMINENT scientists have discovered that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in the normal diet is one of the main causes of skin diseases such as Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. The modern type of diet and the use of refined fats and oils in which these unsaturated fatty acids are completely lacking (even butter contains only a minimum trace) have brought about a deficiency in so many individuals, that the number of skin sufferers has a tendency to increase every year.

This is one of the numerous certified photographs open for inspection at our laboratories.

Little Singers of Paris Produce Pure Music

A group of very ordinary little boys with very extraordinary singing voices brought music to the purest and most unpretentious form to a large Royal Theatre audience last night.

Les Petits Chanteurs de Paris, under the direction of Abbe Maillet, presented a varied program of French religious and secular songs, and folk songs of Ireland and America, with a great deal of mature artistry and boyish sincerity.

World renowned since 1931, the gradually changing choir has thrilled audiences in practically every country in the world.

The boys were too young to be stage-conscious. They were as natural and unaffected as the kids down the street. They could have been from Brooklyn or Equinault. They were all there. "Red" with one sock drooping a little, "Curly," "Shorty," "Spide," with a bandage on his knee, and "Jug-Ears," fidgeting but musically intent.

NO "SHOWMANSHIP"

They were just a lot of French boys who happen to sing like angels. It's a wonderful treat to hear and see a group of artists who don't know the meaning of "showmanship" in French or English.

Most notable was their freshness and ease in tackling the difficult and intricate "Cantata of Peace" by Darius Milhaud, written specially for the choir.

There was a remarkable purity of tone. The French youngsters seemed to throw back their heads and really sing from the heart, even while looking as if they would rather be at a ball game.

The boys followed the unorthodox conducting of Abbe Maillet as if they knew his every wish. Interested mainly in musical effect, the conductor seemed to play them like a musical instrument, rather than lead them.

HONEST MANNER

The friendly priest endeavored himself to the audience from the start with his honest manner. Towering over the front row of boys, he cajoles them, herds them and makes faces at them, smiles his approval and frowns his disapproval.

With all their popularity and standing before the thunderous applause last night, the boys were never coy or precocious; the soloists were just part of the "team."

Although the boys were mostly responsible for the audience's enthusiasm, it is hardly fair to exclude the work of about ten young men who sang the baritone and tenor parts.

Having outgrown their boyish voices, they have not outlived their musical ability or use to the choir. Of the group of French folk songs, the lovely 17th century "Repande, Charnette Nuit," by Lull, drew the most applause and demand for an encore.

CHANGE OF DRESS

The only bit of showmanship evident in the whole program was the change of dress for the liturgical section of the program. The boys sang the beautiful "Requiem" by Du Caurroy and the other selections, dressed in white albs with wooden crosses around their necks.

Not a "costume," the garments are worn by the boys when they sing in their church "a la Croix de Bois" in Paris.

The last section of the program was devoted to songs sung in English.

Included were "Deep River," and "Danny Boy," in which the group displayed an amazing clarity of diction. Their English with a youthful French accent added to the appeal and originality of the well-known songs.

Singing the entire program without accompaniment, the singers showed a remarkable perfection of pitch and control. Even when one little soprano soloist wavered near the end, anybody could see that it was because he was tired.

The concert was one of the current series presented by Famous Artists Limited.

Soviet Plane Will Carry Ailing Red Boss to Russia

PARIS, Nov. 9 (CP).—France has granted permission for a Russian plane to land and take French Communist boss Maurice Thorez to the Soviet Union for medical treatment, it was announced today.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the plane is expected tomorrow or Saturday.

Thorez suffered a stroke last month but has been reported to be improving. The Russians sent a specialist to examine him.

Today it was learned they had asked permission for a Soviet plane to pick up Thorez, and his wife, who goes under the name of Jeannette Vermeersch and is a Communist deputy in the National Assembly; and Thorez' French and Russian doctors.

Thorez, 50, deserted from the French army in 1940 and spent the war in Moscow. He is generally regarded as the principal Communist west of the Iron Curtain.

Mr. Warren, and Mrs. Wilkinson, directors. Mr. Heyer was re-appointed auditor and Mr. Wilkinson, central executive delegate.

Following the elections, the meeting was addressed by V. E. Thorpe, bee inspector for this district. His subject, by choice of the meeting, was "Wintering."

Pilots Double Mercy Flights

VANCOUVER, Nov. 9 (CP).—Flying two mercy runs in one day is becoming a habit with British Columbia pilots.

Bob Langdon of B.C. Airlines did the "double" today when he flew two injured loggers into Campbell River.

He flew to Port Neville to pick up Ben Hatlin, a resident logger who suffered a heart attack while on the job for Western Logging Co.

Langdon's second mission of the day came an hour after his return to the Campbell River dock. He flew to Humphre Creek to pick up a Vancouver logger who had been crushed with logs.

Langdon's feat of two mercy flights in one day equalled the mercy mark set yesterday by Dave Floyd, Associated Air Taxi pilot, who flew an injured miner and an injured logger into Vancouver on separate trips.

Up-Island Rites Unite Mary Trembley, E. Helm

Mary Hilda Trembley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trembley, Alberni, and Eugene Nicholas Helm, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Helm, Nanaimo, were the principals on Saturday morning at a wedding service conducted in the Holy Family Church, Alberni, by Father Wilfred.

A gown of shimmering white satin featuring a full skirt worn en train was chosen by the bride who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Arnold Trembley. Embossed satin formed the fitted bodice which was embroidered with pearls. A full length veil of illusion net cascaded from a tiara of pearls and rhinestones which stood slightly above a wreath of tiny white and pink flowers. In her bouquet she carried pink carnations, white chrysanthemums and white pom-poms.

Ushers Elaine Helm, Betty Stepler and Evelyn Horrocks, were attendants attractively attired in mauve taffeta, turquoise net and rose satin respectively. They wore matching headresses of shoulder-length veils which fell from small caps. For bouquets they carried chrysanthemums in shades of bronze and yellow, pale yellow and deep yellow and pink and mauve respectively.

Performing the duties of best man for the occasion was Mr. Elmer Helm. Mr. Arnold Trembley and Mr. Paul Leffevre were ushers. Mrs. Paul Paquette chose "O Sanctissima" for her solo during the signing of the register. She was accompanied by Mrs. Connie Watson at the organ. During the nuptial mass which followed the wedding service she sang "Je Veux Toujours T'Aimer," "Pania Angelicus" and "To Jesus' Heart All Burning."

Directly following the ceremony the bride and groom attended a wedding breakfast served for immediate relatives at Straker's.

Friends and relatives from Nanaimo, Courtenay, Seattle and the Mainland were among the 200 guests who attended the reception held in the Elks' Hall.

For a honeymoon trip by car on the Mainland the bride changed to a becoming blue afternoon dress with a matching fur-trimmed coat. Her accessories were grey.

The couple will reside on Sixth Avenue South when they return.

Sensible Use of Perfume Addition to Personality

One of the best ways a woman may feel "special" while going about the every day routine is by wearing her own beautiful perfume. In that way, a "smart" woman can make every occasion a special occasion.

Should perfume be worn in an office? Is fragrance only for the older woman, or for the younger woman alone? These are questions that come up over and over again.

Perfume is in good taste at all times of the day and night because it is that fourth dimension to a woman's personality—an added attraction to her own femininity. There is just one thing to remember—and it is important. The scent worn should be suitable to the time and occasion.

In a recent survey, 63 per cent of the businessmen interviewed said they saw no objection to the girls in the office wearing fragrance; 56 per cent said that women should wear perfume "in their place of employment." Chances are that the other 37 per cent of the men felt it was their male prerogative to object to fragrance in the office just as so many men still say they don't like a woman to use lipstick!

In that same survey, only 3 per cent of the men interviewed had any objection to perfume worn by women, and another 2 per cent answered "don't know." Can 90 per cent of men be wrong? Perfume pleases them, so why not use this added attraction in your everyday life?

And what did our lords and masters have to say about the age of women who wear perfume? Eighty-nine per cent answered "Age makes no difference!" So there you have it. As far as the men are concerned, every woman can and should wear fragrance, whether in an office or at home or out for a gala evening.

In an office, you'll feel crispier, more alert, and have a greater sense of your own femininity, when you have a subtle aura of fragrance. And so long as you wear the right scent—and subtly—the boss will think of you as efficient and pleasant to have around the office.

LONDON (C)—A man accused at Old Bailey Court of forging coins pleaded that they were medallions for the 1951 Festival of Britain. Experts said the fakes were almost perfect.

Sees Hike In Price Of Cottons

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9 (INS)—Shirts, sheets, dresses and other cotton goods will cost you more next year but at least you will be able to buy them despite Dixie's short crop and the nation's increased military needs.

That is the opinion of Donald Combs, president of Alabama's Avondale Cotton Mills and one of the nation's leading textile manufacturers.

Crop experts, who forecast last Spring a 1950 harvest of from 12 to 13 million bales, have revised their estimates sharply downward. They now say the nation will be lucky if ten million bales are warehoused by Winter.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan lifted the lid on exports today to allow the immediate shipment of 50,000 bales abroad. There followed a heavy buying wave that saw futures prices skyrocket on the New Orleans Exchange above the 42-cent-a-pound level—an all-time record for the market.

HIGHER PRICES

Comer pointed out that this means higher prices for the farmer and, necessarily, a hike in the cost of cotton goods to consumers.

He added that despite the current "tight" supply-demand situation, this year's crop plus cotton already on hand will be sufficient to keep the nation's spindles running full speed with some left over for export.

Comer said supply next year should present no problem since farmers have been given the green light to plant as much cotton acreage as they like.

The industrialist believes cotton mills can handle all demands, both civilian and military, as production potentials have been stepped up by at least 1 per cent for the industry as a whole since the World War.

Harem Inspires New Fashions

Harem—the romantic-trouser costume worn by women in harems has inspired designers to create a new skirt fashion which is different and very attractive for after-five wear. There's a puffed look at the hemline and a straight underskirt or lining insures the continued full appearance of the skirt. Sometimes the hemline is finished in scalloped or pointed lines. They are usually done in crisp fabric such as taffeta.

Harem is from an Arabian word which means "forbidden."

You're as Young as the Moisture in your Skin!

Amazing new cream "FORMULAYER" lauded by beauty experts. Brings moisture-retaining benefits to drying skin.

An entirely new type of face cream has been enthusiastically acclaimed by nation-wide beauty experts for the astonishing youthifying effects it produces on drying skin. This wonder cream actually enables the skin to retain natural moisture... helps keep skin youthful and fresh looking.

After years of scientific research the Harriet Hubbard Ayer laboratories created FORMULAYER, designed specifically to aid aging and drying skin tissues. This cream performs an essential service to the skin through a secret ingredient called Ayerogen which helps prevent the loss of moisture from the skin. This moisture acts to plump sub-surface skin cells and helps counteract dryness and excessive wrinkling.

TEST RESULTS VERY EFFECTIVE

The youthifying benefits were proved by tests conducted by leading independent dermatologists. 98% of the women who tested FORMULAYER for a period of three weeks, noticed a remarkable improvement. All of the women tested said their skin looked much younger and fresher; that facial and neck tissues seemed firmer and smoother. Surface wrinkles around the eyes, the neck and the forehead were far less apparent after the FORMULAYER test, and the skin took on a younger, rosy-petal smoothness.

DAILY USE OF FORMULAYER PRESCRIBED

FORMULAYER has proved to be most effective when used as a daily treatment. Definite results become apparent within a few weeks. The ideal method is to leave FORMULAYER on overnight, but if used during the day, it should remain on the skin for at least one hour. Continued use of FORMULAYER will help subtract years from the face. Try this new wonder cream. See if it doesn't make an amazing difference in the texture and freshness of your skin. FORMULAYER, a non-hormone cream by Harriet Hubbard Ayer, is available at your favorite beauty counter.

Last Rites Held for Private Wallace

Lieut. J. S. Gregson (centre) carefully places silver urn containing ashes of Private Wallace, mascot of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, on flag-draped piano in Officers' Mess as last rites were held for dog last night. Piper "Wee" Andrew McGeorge (left) and Pipe Major Andrew Pollock played Lament on pipes as final tribute to beloved dog.

Two Toasts Proposed

Lament Piped as Solemn Rites Held For Wallace, Beloved Scots Mascot

Last rites for Private Wallace were held last night at Bay Street Armory.

The lovable mascot of The Canadian Scottish Regiment died peacefully in his sleep early Thursday morning, November 1.

Last night a simple ceremony and two toasts by his wartime comrades marked the closing chapter in the story of the adventure-loving dog.

His ashes, carried in a silver urn by Lieut. J. S. Gregson, were first piped into the Sergeants' Mess by Pipe Major Andrew Pollock.

More than 25 members of the mess stood at attention while R. S. M. William Waldron proposed a toast to Wallace.

Led by the two pipers and followed by Lieut. Gregson carrying the urn, the procession marched slowly around the balcony which surrounds the Armory to the Officers' Mess.

In the entrance the procession paused and then started a slow march towards the officers' lounge. More than 50 officers stood rigidly at attention with glasses held firmly in their right hands.

To the shrill of the pipes that Wallace loved the mourners marched between the two lines of officers to the flag-draped piano. The tune played was "Scotland's My Ain Home."

The pipes suddenly stopped playing. In the dead hush that followed Pipe Major Pollock looked at Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale and said: "The Lament, sir?"

The colonel nodded and the pipes suddenly broke into the strains of the "Lament." The officers stared straight ahead silent with their memories.

When the pipes stopped Col. Mosedale proposed the toast.

"Wallace was more than a mascot to this regiment," he said, "he was a comrade."

"Little do we know," he added, "how soon it will be before we are looking for another mascot to cherish through another world war."

"And now gentlemen I will ask you to drink a toast to our beloved mascot, Private Wallace."

The men drank and at the same time Lieut. Gregson placed the urn on the piano in front of the big oil painting of Wallace.

Wallace will add to the tradition

Marked Cars Seen as Curb To Accidents

A new and different opinion on how to prevent many accidents was expressed last night by Richard Steel during the regular weekly meeting of the Toastmasters' Club No. 38 at the Strathcona dining room.

Mr. Steel suggested that the police should mark cars which are being driven by persons who have caused accidents.

He explained that when persons are learning to drive in Britain their cars are marked in such a manner as to inform other drivers to use caution. He believed that the same principle should apply to careless drivers.

The table topic of the evening was "Capital Punishment," and was led by Harry Wood. Those taking part were A. W. Ousman, P. W. Wright, F. C. Harrison, John Doughty, Bill Gazzard, C. C. Gosler, Mr. Steel and P. Lannigan.

Toastmaster for the evening was Mr. Gosler, who introduced the speakers. These included M. C. Jennings, Richard Goodwyn, Bill Jorgensen and Arthur Kinnik.

Others taking part in the meeting were B. H. E. Goult, E. G. R. Hartman, H. Olden, Lloyd Smith and D. Taylor. The guests were I. F. MacArthur and George Bell.

Differing Views Voiced On Collusion by Lawyers

Remarks of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court earlier this week regarding collusion in divorce cases yesterday brought comment from a number of city lawyers.

One termed them "inappropriate" and thought they might result in more public confusion and suspicion regarding an already confused situation.

Personally, he said, he had heard of no cases of collusion in divorce cases in the city.

Another lawyer said he thought there was a "certain amount of collusion here—just as there is in any province where adultery is the only grounds for divorce."

"The real difficulty starts in the solicitors' office," he said, "when the couple present themselves with a joint request for a divorce. Often, the legal grounds exist, but they don't come out with them."

"Sometimes the lawyer has to tell them that the more mutual their desire is to be divorced, the less likelihood there is that the decree will be granted."

"When this situation is presented to the lawyer, his first task is to find out if there are grounds, and decide whether he can act for either party."

"He'll often retire and ask them to consult other lawyers."

"It has been decided by Chief Justice Farris that either the husband or the wife can give evidence of existing grounds for divorce and it is not collusion for the lawyer to convey the information to the wife or husband."

"When the evidence is finally given in court, it is up to the judge whether he will accept it."

Another lawyer said he thought "arranged" cases might be "fairly common," but that barristers were "only fulfilling the demands made upon them by the public."

In criticizing collusion cases, the judge was attacking only a superficial aspect of a "social disease," he said.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—(C.N.A.)— shipments of lumber to Germany have resumed, and management is forecasting a backlog of 50,000 cords at the end of the year.

In the first nine months of the year, exports of lumber to Germany totalled 210,000 cords, and the total for the year is expected to reach 250,000 cords. The main reason for the increase is the fact that the German market has been opened up by the new trade agreement between the two countries, which permits the export of 250,000 cords of lumber annually.

Nootka to Sail Soon for Korea; May Speed Return of Other Ships

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

Possibility that at least one of the three Canadian destroyers now serving in Korea will return to Esquimalt shortly was heightened yesterday with a report from Ottawa that the destroyer Nootka will leave Halifax November 25 for the war zone.

Earlier unofficial reports have said the first of the three ships now in Korean waters to be relieved will be the Sioux. Along with the Albatross and Cayuga, she has been operating in Korean waters since late last summer. Esquimalt is the home base of all three ships.

The Ottawa report says the Albatross and Cayuga will be similarly relieved at a later date to allow them to return to this port for refits and change of crews.

The Nootka will go to Korea by way of San Pedro, Calif., and Pearl Harbor. She is scheduled to leave the latter port December 25. She is under the command of Cmdr. A. B. Fraser-Harris, 24, of Halifax, and carries a normal complement of approximately 275 officers and men. Vice-Admiral H. T. W. Grant, chief of naval staff, in a visit here a short time ago, intimated that all three Canadian destroyers now in Korea could be expected to return to Esquimalt by April at the latest.

BUSY PORT

October was a busy month of shipping activity at Port Alberni. Reports from the West Coast port say 18,294 tons of lumber and 2,246 tons of pulp were shipped from the port in a total of 14 freighters during the month. The cargoes were destined for a number of widely-separated ports of the globe.

Ships calling at Port Alberni during October included the Walvis Bay, lumber for Britain; Sea-side, lumber for the United States; Pentire, lumber for U.S.A.; Lake-side, lumber for U.S.A.; Cape Howe, lumber for Britain; Brazilian Prince and Katherine, lumber for Britain; Ensenada, lumber and pulp for the United States; Sam-truth, lumber and pulp for the United States; Stamford Hill, lumber and pulp for the United States; Durango, pulp for the United Kingdom; Abraham Lincoln, pulp for the U.S.A.; and Lord Gladstone, lumber for American ports.

PACKER IN TOW

The fishpacker Norpak No. 1, which ran aground Wednesday night at the southern end of Denman Island, off the east coast of Vancouver Island, is being towed to Vancouver.

The vessel's two crew members—John C. Bowden, 36, Vancouver, and 21-year-old William Floyd, Victoria—were picked up by another fishing craft.

Western Fishing Company, operators of the Norpak, report the men went aboard the packer again when it was discovered that she had not been seriously holed.

Bowden, skipper of the damaged vessel, and Floyd took to a dinghy after the Norpak grounded, then rolled over on her sides on the rocks.

They were taken aboard the Pacheco No. 1, which answered their radio call for assistance, and later transferred to the Salvage Queen.

The grounded packer, carrying an $8,000 cargo of salmon, was refloated by the rising tide and taken in tow by the Salvage Queen.

BOATERS' LICENCES?

British Columbia yachtsmen—like automobile drivers—may have drivers' licences in future.

A licence recommendation now is under consideration in Ottawa. It would apply to yachtsmen, some fishermen and anyone who operates a small power boat.

George Bullock, secretary of Vancouver branch of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, said yesterday his organization made the recommendations to Ottawa.

They are under consideration by the Department of Transport and the Department of Naval Service.

"A 12-year-old boy can take a private boat loaded with friends anywhere he wants and no one says a word," said Mr. Bullock. He said, as a safety factor, small-boat operators should at least know the rules of the road and common sense in handling their boats.

SALMON CATCH

British Columbia fishermen continue to reap a rich harvest of salmon, with the total pack to date now totaling 1,456,391 cases, compared with 1,427,150 for the corresponding period of last year. The pack covers all species and commercial fishing districts Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

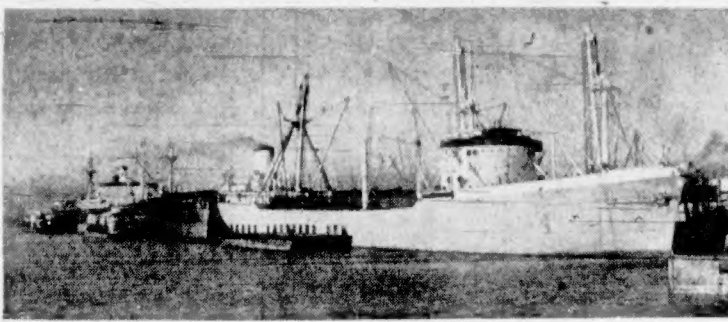

Meanwhile, in herring fishery bul-

GRATEFUL FOR HELP WITH CONSTIPATION

"My husband spent much money seeking cures for constipation. Not until he began taking KELLLOG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast did his trouble disappear!" So writes Mrs. Fernand Boudreau, 11 rue Hôtel de Ville, L'Abord-a-Plouffe, Conté Laval, P.Q. One of many unsolicited letters. If you suffer from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, do this: Eat an ounce of toasty KELLLOG'S ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. If not completely satisfied with results after 10 days, send empty box to Kellogg's, London, Ont. Get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Freighters Load Island Lumber for Distant Ports

Grinding of powerful winches and roar of lumber-carriers filled air about Ogden Point docks throughout yesterday as big freighters swallowed great cargoes of choice Vancouver Island lumber destined for distant parts of world. Pictured above at busy docksite are freighters Ss. Triton, at left, loading 900,000 board feet for South Africa, and scheduled to leave late tomorrow for additional cargo at Vancouver; and Christen Smith, Norwegian vessel, which took on 1,000,000 board feet for United Kingdom. Triton is owned by Gratson Bros., Greek shipping firm, and is commanded by Capt. P. Kostopoulos. Capt. M. Mortensen commands the Christen Smith, of the Christen Smith Co., Oslo. Ship left Victoria yesterday evening to complete loading at Port Alberni.

"There are a hundred commodities the Aorange could take to Australia for which there is enormous demand, but they just haven't got the dollars."

Cargo, not passengers, he added, was the revenue-producing part of the operation.

Leaders of the Dominion sat on equal terms with British Cabinet ministers for the first time in 1917.

Two Indians Fined For Intoxication

PORT ALBERNI, Nov. 9 — Two Indians, Mike Williams of Port Alberni and Wilfred Sylvester of Westholme, were fined $15.00 each today by Magistrate G. E. Tisdall. They were charged with being intoxicated.

Charged for supplying the two men with liquor are Capt. Patrick Campbell and J. McLeod, two fishermen from Port Alberni. Their case will be tried next Tuesday.

MARINERS' WARNING

Local Transport Department Agent Thomas Morrison yesterday reported that a temporary red light had been established on the ex-trinity of the new breakwater at Powell River.

Blast at Hockey Quickly Answered

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Canadian hockey took a verbal poke-check today in a British sports writer's column, and one long-suffering defender came back swinging.

Bobby Giddens of Ottawa, who has been beating hockey in Britain for 15 years, said he has sent a telegram to the newspaper's publisher, asking him "bluntly" whether the blast on hockey represents his views on the sport.

The belittling reference appeared in today's Daily Express under the byline of Peter Wilson, one of Britain's best-known sports writers. Right in the first sentence, Wilson said hockey is the "most outlandish of all sports foisted on a long-suffering public."

Wilson went on to say that a lot of Canadians who can't make the grade with hockey sticks are becoming chorus boys in London ice shows.

"Chorus boys, indeed," sniffed Giddens. "I say flatly there isn't one first-class Canadian player in British ice pantomimes today."

Giddens edits a weekly British publication, "The Ice Hockey World," which has been in business since 1935. This week's issue will contain some unkind words about Wilson.

Meanwhile, Giddens is waiting a reply to a telegram he sent today to Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of The Daily Express, who now is in Canada. Giddens quoted Wilson's remarks and asked whether Lord Beaverbrook, as a publisher and a Canadian, would stand behind them. "I'm getting tired of this British
